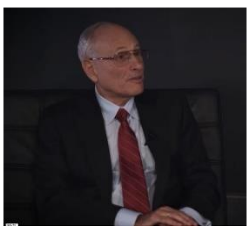
Weiss Research's Edelson Institute presents

"Supercycle Investment Summit: Session #1"

With Dr. Martin D. Weiss

ANNOUNCER: After Edelson Institute experts accurately predicted the stock market crash of 1987 ... the tech wreck of 2000 ... the housing bust of 2008 and 2009 ... and every major economic event in-between ...

The Institute's founder, world-renowned investment forecaster Dr. Martin D. Weiss, recently announced that the greatest crisis of our generation has begun.



Martin Weiss*: It's probably our most important forecast ever, in the 46 years since I founded this company. And it is frightening. On the flip side though, there are going to be tremendous profit opportunities for those in the know.*

Weiss now says that the era in which governments could amass obscene debts with impunity will end on October 31, 2017.

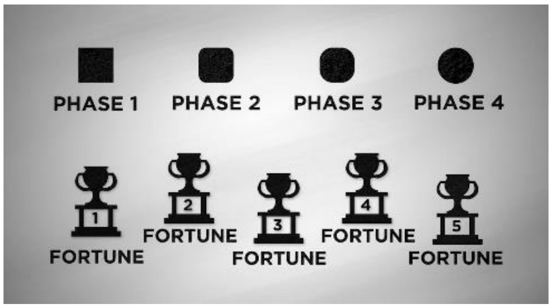
And on that day a new era — an era in which mankind will pay the price for those debts — will begin.

Now, in this Supercycle Investment Summit, Dr. Weiss and Senior Editor Sean Brodrick will give you the strategy, the tactics and the investments you will need to help preserve and grow your wealth as this crisis unfolds.

Today, in session #1, Dr. Weiss will reveal two newly-discovered cycles that are also on a collision course with October 31 — and virtually guarantee that the years 2017 through 2022 will be the most chaotic of our lifetimes. (To review the video recording, click here.)

Plus, Dr. Weiss will also reveal ...

Why the world's governments are helpless to prevent these catastrophes from occurring.



The four phases of this crisis — and the fortunes you can amass as this it unfolds, with scores of opportunities to multiply your money two times ... three times ... six times ... up to 21 times over.

Mr. Brodrick will ...

NAME each of these companies for you ...

Explain the three advantages they give you for maximizing your profit potential while minimizing your risk ...

Give you actual case histories of the gains these investments are already posting right now in the real world ...

And even provide an estimate as to how much you could make as this crisis accelerates.

Ladies and gentlemen, the founder of Weiss Research and The Edelson Institute, Dr. Martin Weiss.

Martin Weiss: Hello — and welcome to our Supercycle Investment Summit.

You and I stand at a critical crossroads today.

Two roads lie ahead of us.

The first leads to five long years of fear, loss, hardship and helplessness.

The second, to five years of windfall profit opportunities — scores of them — the likes of which we have never seen before and will probably never see again.

Fortunately, you have the power to choose which road you will take.

Unfortunately, more than 90% of the investors who hear this forecast today will simply choose to ignore it and will pay a hefty price for doing so.

I do NOT want that for you.

And that is precisely why we created this three-part series, our Supercycle Investing Summit.

I have two very clear objectives.

My first objective is to help you protect your wealth from this great convergence of economic forces — a "Supercycle" that's as big as, or even larger than, the cycle that struck in the 1930s.

My second objective is to help you harness the power of this great Supercycle to amass more wealth in less time than you may now believe possible.

So, let's begin ...

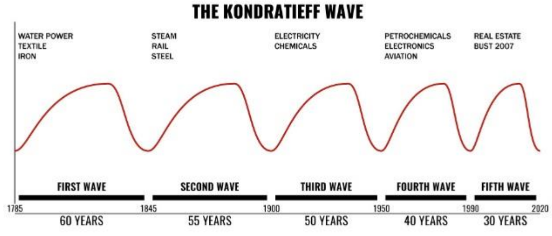
At 2:00 PM Eastern Time on Tuesday, September 12, 2017, I issued the most important forecast since I founded this company 46 years ago:

I was so alarmed at what I saw in my travels around the world, that I rushed home to join The Edelson Institute's Sean Brodrick, who had reached a very similar conclusion at almost the same time.

Our forecast and our warning were clear and unhedged:

Right now, the most powerful cycles in the financial world are converging in one time and one place.

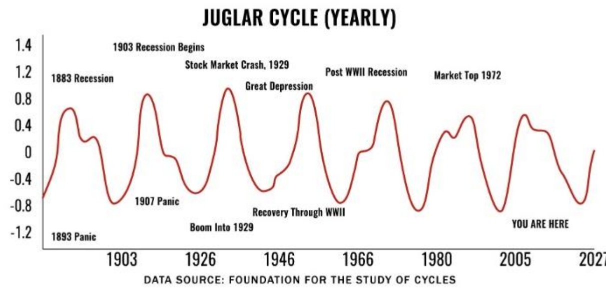
These are the same cycles that accurately warned of the Great Depression of the 1930s, the Great Recession of 2008-2009 and every other major economic event in-between:

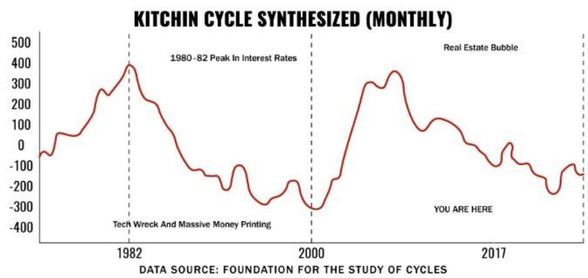


They are the time-honored Kondratieff Wave, which is signaling an Armageddon for massively indebted governments ... soaring unemployment

... skyrocketing interest rates ... and even massive defaults on public and private debt ... plus more ...

The 7-to-11-year Juglar Cycle, which is signaling hoarding of cash by businesses ... plunging re-investment of earnings and job destruction ... and a comatose economy ...

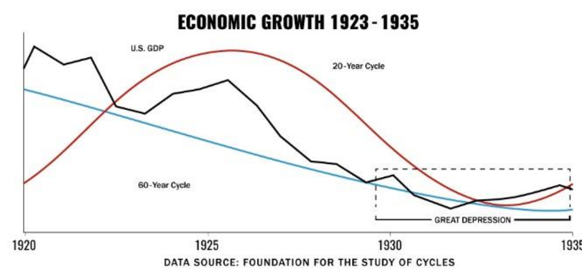




The 40-month Kitchin Cycle, which predicts slower business formation ... extremely weak consumer demand ... slower inventory turnover ... chronic unemployment and worse ...

The 60-year economic cycle, which is signaling that a great depression and economic catastrophe with tremendous financial pain is dead ahead.

And recently, we have just completed a new study which uncovers even more bombshell evidence: Two ADDITIONAL cycles that are adding momentum and power to the great convergence and are set to collide very soon.



The first is the cycle of war, and our knowledge of this cycle has very deep roots.

Six thousand years of history beginning in Sumer at the dawn of civilization. Three-thousand six hundred years of Chinese history, beginning in the Yellow River valley of China.

And of course, at least 2,800 years of Western Civilization, that is, assuming you start counting in Greece. This research was first completed many years ago by the Foundation for the Study of Cycles. And it has been right as rain.

In modern times, the cycle of war has tracked very closely with the Kondratieff Wave. First the war begins and then there's a huge build-up of debt to finance the war.

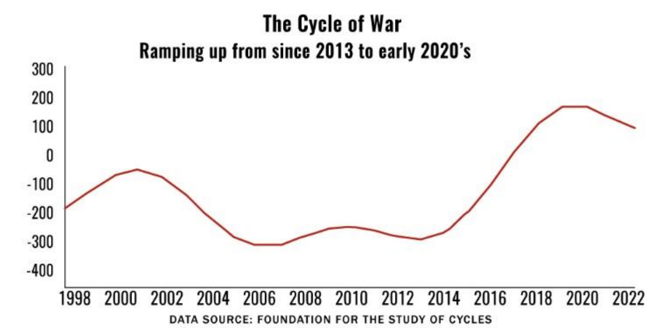
This time, however, as I'll explain in a moment, there's a new, frightening twist to the war cycle that we've never seen before.

But let me put your mind at ease regarding the big elephant in the room. Nuclear war. A nuclear holocaust is still very unlikely.

What IS very possible, however, is a variety of other kinds of wars: Trade wars, economic wars, currency wars, cyberwars ... and also civil wars, regional wars, or perhaps even a major conventional war.

We pray that won't happen. But whether it does or not, we ALREADY see, TODAY, a torrent of economic and investment consequences.

All over the world, countries are ramping up their defense spending. And all over the world they are piling up more and more debt to finance that defense spending.



Our forecast, which we first published here four years ago, shows that the war cycle is ramping up rapidly and reaching a peak in the early 2020s.

That's when the risk of a major war between nations will be the highest.

Now, the second major cycle that we've uncovered, is the Cycle of Debt, also known as the interest-rate cycle.

From the beginning, we've told you that this is, first and foremost, a crisis of GOVERNMENT DEBT.

So, the investors who have been loaning money to the governments of Japan, the European Union and the United States, they're are already beginning to see the handwriting on the wall. They are already beginning to realize that these debts are worse than unpayable. They are unserviceable.

And soon they will realize that these governments will ultimately – ultimately - have to default in some way, via inflation, via a currency devaluation, and maybe even via payment delays.

In one way or another, these governments will no longer be able to make good on the interest payments they promise investors.

And, even if we never see or never witness the worst possible default scenario, investors will FEAR the worst possible scenario.

They will snap their wallets shut.

They will begin selling government bonds like there's no tomorrow.

And bond prices will plunge by 50% or more. You will see an all-out bond market panic around the globe.

Now, interest rates are the flip side of bond prices. So, when bond prices plunge, interest rates shoot for the moon.

And that's exactly what the Interest Rate Cycle shows right now: It shows that key interest rates will be soaring to over 15% by 2020.

Now, according to the U.S. Congressional Budget Office, the CBO, each one percentage point rise in interest rates adds $1.6 trillion to the 10-year federal deficit projection.

So, even assuming the government's 10-year average interest rate, that is, the average over the 10-year period, is only 5 percentage points higher than today, that means the government's interest cost ALONE will add another $8 trillion to the deficits.

All coming at a catastrophic time when governments are already finding it impossible to borrow enough just to cover normal expenses!

Plus, here's the new frightening twist to the war cycle that I mentioned before. In the past, the war began. Then the government borrowed heavily to finance the war. The war ended. The government paid down its debts. And the country prospered.

In the United States, that's the pattern we saw in

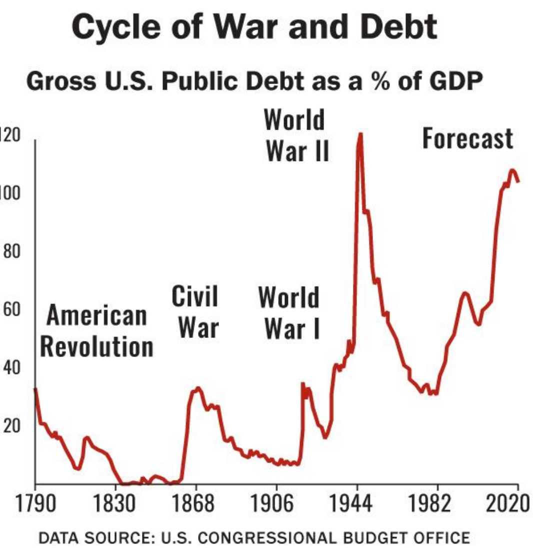
The Revolutionary War,

The Civil War.

World War I.

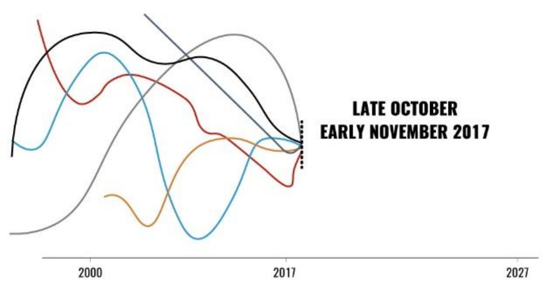
World War II.

That was the pattern until the 1970s. Now, we have a NEW pattern since the 1970s. Now what we see a huge debt build-up in peacetime.



We see the government borrowing heavily for social programs and defense programs. We see the debt markets collapsing.

Then, if a major war begins, it will get even worse. And that’s when a government default in some form, although unthinkable today, would be almost inevitable at that time.



On October 31st, just a couple of weeks from today — all of these cycles will be joining forces.

That day will mark the end of the era in which governments could amass obscene amounts of debts with impunity.

And it will signal the beginning of the era in which mankind will begin to pay the price for that horrific debt.

These governments have borrowed all they can. They’ve printed all the money they can. No one can bail them out in the future.

So, what can you expect?

Well, this crisis will unfold in four, distinct phases, giving you the opportunity to amass not just one, but FIVE impressive fortunes:

FORTUNE #1: Right now — as trillions of dollars continue flowing to the U.S. from trouble spots around the world, and, during phase one, we want to own what foreign investors are buying with their flight capital:

Select U.S. blue-chip stocks, select exchange traded funds, or ETFs, plus select resource-related investments, which I’ll cover in just a moment.

FORTUNE #2 As global conflicts escalate, as Japanese bond markets begin to implode, as the Japanese yen takes a nosedive — that's when we want to ADD to our U.S. positions as they climb higher.

FORTUNE #3: As economic cycles converge on Europe.

At that time, expect a new tidal wave of flight capital to the U.S.

From euros and British pounds into U.S. dollars.

Almost all seeking to buy U.S. investments.

Our strategy: We will use two kinds of investments to go for windfall profits:

First, we'll continue to recommend things that European investors will be buying with their flight capital:

Select U.S. stocks and ETFs.

And second, we will be recommending INVERSE ETFs. Those are ETFs designed to profit from falling markets.

We'll buy those Inverse ETFs on the things the Europeans are selling: The euro currency and the most vulnerable European stock sectors.

FORTUNE #4: As this crisis comes to America. That's when the United States of America pays the price for the largest orgy of debt in history. That's when U.S. stock markets plunge. And that's when the U.S. dollar falls from grace.

Our strategy:

We will cash out of our stocks and ETFs in the U.S.

We will buy inverse ETFs on broad stock indexes.

We will buy inverse ETFs on select stock sectors.

And we will buy ETFs on the strongest foreign currencies.

FORTUNE #5: That's throughout this crisis. There will actually be a FIFTH great fortune to make as gold, silver, platinum and palladium soar.

As industrial metals and energy metals surge — those are special kinds of metals for batteries.

As oil and gas, and other commodities rise.

And as mankind’s most reliable hedges against uncertainty and crisis — begin a powerful new bull market.

So, the two last questions now are:

What should you do — both now and at each step of this crisis — to protect your wealth? And ...

What should you do to harness the power of this great Supercycle to multiply your wealth?

In our next session together, we will name the ETFs that we’ll be recommending at each phase of this crisis:

ETFs selected to nearly triple your money with gains of up to 180% or MORE, as foreign flight capital — fear money — rushes to buy up assets in the world’s safest safe haven, the United States.

MORE ETFs selected to pay you another 180% or more as markets fall in Japan and then Europe.

STILL MORE ETFs designed to pay you at least 180% when the U.S. dollar and stock market become the third domino to fall.

All of this is also detailed in our latest report we just posted on the Web. If you want to read it right now, just click here.

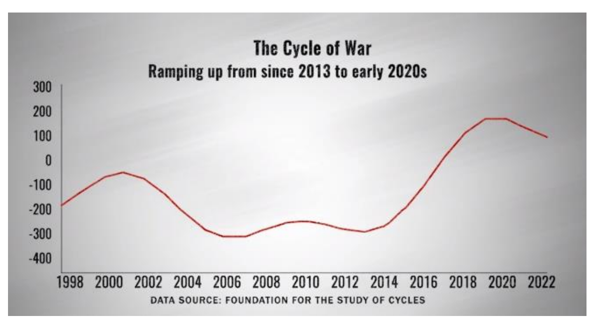
"Supercycle Investment Summit: Session #2"

With Dr. Martin D. Weiss

ANNOUNCER: In Session #1 of his "Supercycle Investment Summit," Martin Weiss dropped not just one, but TWO bombshells.

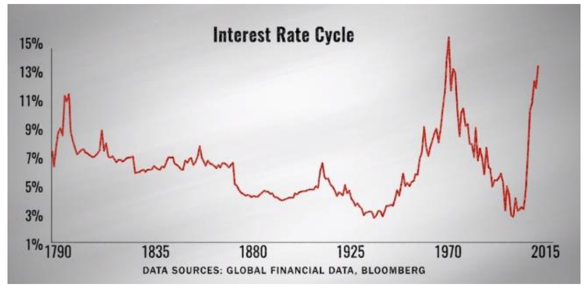
MARTIN WEISS: "Two additional cycles that are adding momentum and power to the great convergence and are set to collide very soon."

ANNOUNCER: He presented two additional, time-honored cycles that shed still more light on the coming crisis:



The Cycle of War which is ramping up rapidly right now, heading toward a peak in the early 2020s.

And the Interest Rate Cycle, which is warning that interest rates will spike as governments default on their debts and bond investors suffer a horrific blood- bath.



Today, in session #2, Dr. Weiss will give you intensive training on the exchange-traded funds — the ETFs — that he recommends you use to help protect yourself and profit.

ETFs selected to nearly triple your money with gains of up to 180% and MORE, as foreign flight capital — fear money — rushes to buy up assets in the world's safest safe haven, the United States.

MORE ETFs selected to pay you another 180% or more as markets fall in Japan and then Europe.

STILL MORE ETFs designed to pay you at least 180% when the U.S. dollar and stock market become the third domino to fall.

Dr. Weiss will ...

Actually, NAME the investments that should be on your radar screen now ...

Give you his strategy for using them ...

Show you WHEN you should consider buying each one ...

And even provide an estimate as to how much you could make as this crisis accelerates.

Ladies and gentlemen, Edelson Institute founder, Dr. Martin Weiss.

MARTIN: Hello again and welcome to the second session of our "Supercycle Investment Summit."

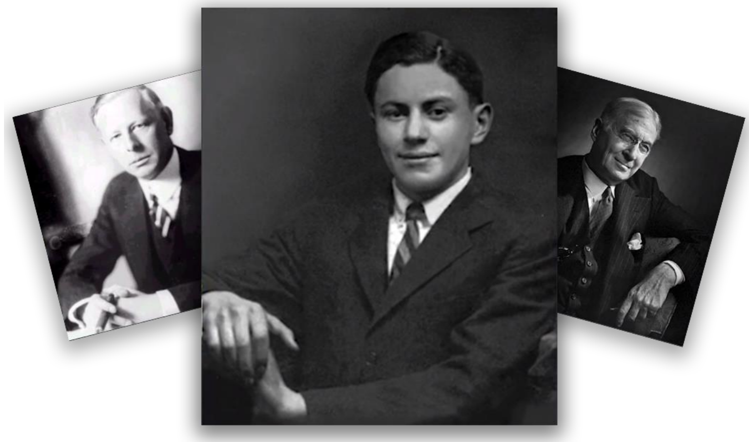
As we've seen, the next five years are going to be like a roller-coaster ride through hell for many investors.

The good news is that for those of us in the know, there will be scores of opportunities to multiply our money as this crisis unfolds.

The timing of this crisis actually couldn't be better.

Because, the last time a Supercycle slammed into the world economy, in the Great Depression, investors had very few ways to defend themselves let alone to profit.

Now, there was a small handful of advisors who saw the Great Depression coming. Like my father, Irving Weiss for example. But even he had just two choices back then.



One, he could accept unlimited risk by selling short the market. In fact, that's exactly what my father did. He borrowed a small amount of money from his mother. And then he turned that small grubstake into a not-so-small fortune for the family.

Or, his other choice was to just take his money off the table, go home for a few years, and hope to come back to the market later, just in time for the next major recovery.

Today, we're more fortunate.

Because today we have many choices that Wall Street has introduced, many different instruments for the average investor that give you a tremendous diversity and flexibility.

Plus, they've introduced several that actually go up in value when the market falls.

And so today, we're going to examine one of my favorites: And that's Exchange Traded Funds.

First, just a little background for the newer investors joining us today ...

Exchange Traded Funds or ETFs are like "baskets" of investments.

Each ETF focuses on investments in a particular index, sector, country, asset class or even a particular style of investing.

You can buy ETFs that own U.S. stocks, you can buy ETFs that own bonds, gold or silver and many others.

You can also buy ETFs that own foreign stocks or foreign bonds.

ETFs, in fact, offer you several different important advantages over other types of investments:

Advantage #1 is performance: Unlike mutual funds which typically underperform the market, ETFs are designed to MATCH the market.

If, for instance, gold bullion goes up by 1.5% today, then the goal of the gold bullion ETF is to make sure its value also goes up by 1.5% today.

Advantage #2 is that ETFs trade just like ordinary stocks.

Unlike most mutual funds, you don't have to wait until the end of the day to buy or sell your ETFs. Nor are there any limits to how often you can trade them during the day.

You can buy or sell whenever you want in any brokerage account at any time during the trading day.

Advantage #3 is that ETFs are cheaper to buy, hold and sell than mutual funds.

Unlike mutual funds, there are no sales loads, redemption fees, exchange fees, account fees, 12b-1 fees or any other kinds of fees that mutual funds use to nickel and dime you to death.

ETFs are subject ONLY to a standard management fee and ... just the same brokerage commission you pay when you buy or sell ordinary stocks.

So that means, you can also take advantage of deeply discounted commissions offered by many online brokers.

Advantage #4 is that ETFs make it easy for you to diversify your wealth across several different asset classes.

For instance, you could hold an ETF that delivers profits when the U.S. stock market rises in value.

At the same time, you could go for even more profits as the U.S. dollar rises against the euro or the yen ... as gold bullion prices surge ... as silver prices explode and many other examples.

Plus, the sheer number of diverse ETFs available means you can almost always find something that's trending higher.

Advantage #5 is that ETFs also can be used to profit from falling markets – and doing so without ever opening a margin account or accepting the unlimited risk that typically comes with futures trading.

Now never forget: When you short a stock or you trade futures, you must accept unlimited risk.

If there's a margin call, you could lose much more than the amount you invest.

But with ETFs, you can go for substantial profits from assets that are falling in value and you are NEVER exposed to unlimited risk.

And as with regular ETFs, you have many different inverse ETFs to choose from.

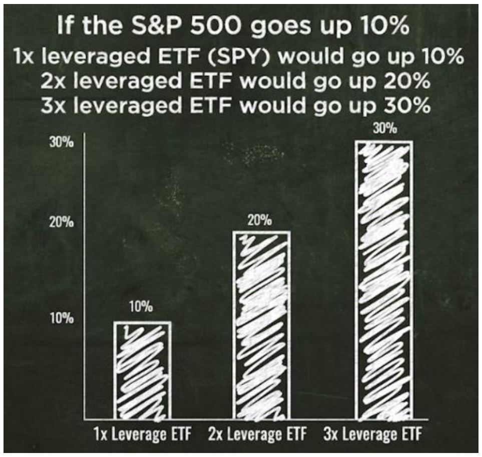
For example, you could hold an ETF that will surge as flight capital leaves foreign markets in ruins.

You could use inverse ETFs to profit as bond prices fall and interest rates surge.

And later, when this crisis ultimately comes to America, you can use inverse ETFs to profit as our own stock and bond markets take a hit.

Advantage #6 is that ETFs give you the power to use LEVERAGE, and again, WITHOUT exposing you to unlimited risk.

Now, when I say that an ETF offers leverage, it simply means that it's designed to double or triple your profit potential.



Let's say you think the S&P 500 is going up. So, you buy the ETF that tracks the S&P 500. That's the SPY. And let's say the S&P 500 goes up 10%.

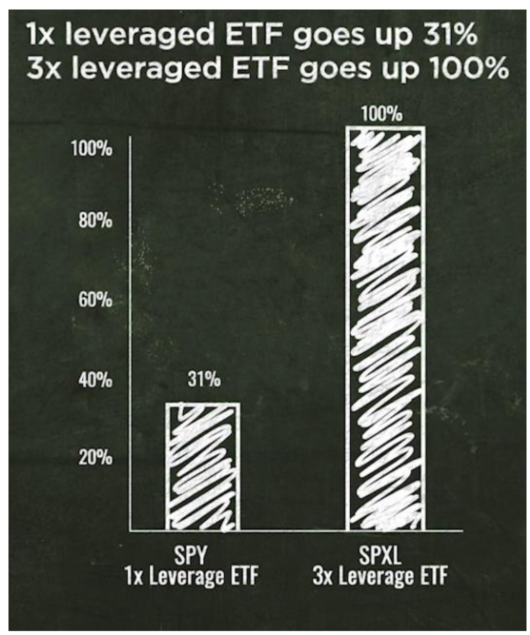
Well, the S&P 500 ETF — the SPY — is designed to match that, and also go up 10%.

Now let's say you're confident that the S&P 500 is going to go up, and you decide to buy the 2x leveraged ETF to make not just 10% but 20%.

Or let's say you're really confident and you buy the 3x leveraged ETF, which instead of making 10% or 20% could make you 30%. Now, of course, never forget the reverse is also true when the market goes against you.

But the great thing is, you can do this not only on the S&P 500, but also on individual stock sectors, on foreign stock indexes, a wide range of asset classes ...

And as is always the case with ETFs, you NEVER have to accept unlimited risk to get that added profit potential.



Okay, let's look at a real-life example — the SPY that's the ETF I told you earlier that tracks the S&P 500 one to one.

Between January of 2016 and today it posted a gain of 31%.

Meanwhile ...

A TRIPLE-leveraged ETF, that symbol is SPXL. could have given you a whopping 100% gain! That's double your money.

Here's another good example:

If stock markets in Europe plunge 60% (which by the way is pretty much what our S&P 500 fell in 2008 and early 2009), then a leveraged ETF could deliver a gain of 120% — that's the 2x leverage — up to 180%, which is the 3x leverage.

At that rate, every $10,000 you invest could grow to as much as $28,000.

So now let's take a look at the specific ETFs we plan to use and when we plan to use them ...

Remember this crisis will unfold in four, distinct phases, giving you the opportunity to amass not just one, but FIVE impressive fortunes:

FORTUNE #1: Right now, as trillions of dollars continue flowing to the U.S. markets, we want to own what foreign investors are buying with their flight capital: ETFs that invest in select U.S. stock indexes, real estate, etc.

There are too many to name right now, but you should see some examples on the green board behind me. And I'll be sure to include the complete list in the transcript of this session.

ETFs the Japanese and Europeans are buying in the U.S.

- Guggenheim S&P 500 Equal Weight ETF (RSP)
- iShares Russell 2000 Index ETF (IWM)
- iShares S&P 100 ETF (OEF)
- iShares Core S&P 500 ETF (IVV)
- iShares US Real Estate ETF (IYR)
- PowerShares QQQ Trust Series 1 (QQQ)
- SPDR Dow Jones REIT ETF (RWR)
- SPDR S&P 500 ETF Trust (SPY)
- Vanguard S&P 500 ETF (VOO)
- Vanguard REIT ETF (VNQ)

FORTUNE #2: This is as the violent conflicts heat up overseas, and as Japan really start to tumble and the flow of capital into U.S. markets becomes a flood, at that point I want to ADD to my ETF positions.

Even if the tidal wave of flight capital flowing out of foreign markets and into ours just continues at the current pace, without any acceleration in that flow, you could nearly triple your money.

FORTUNE #3: Next, as Europe collapses, I'm going to own ETFs that invest in assets that European flight capital is buying.

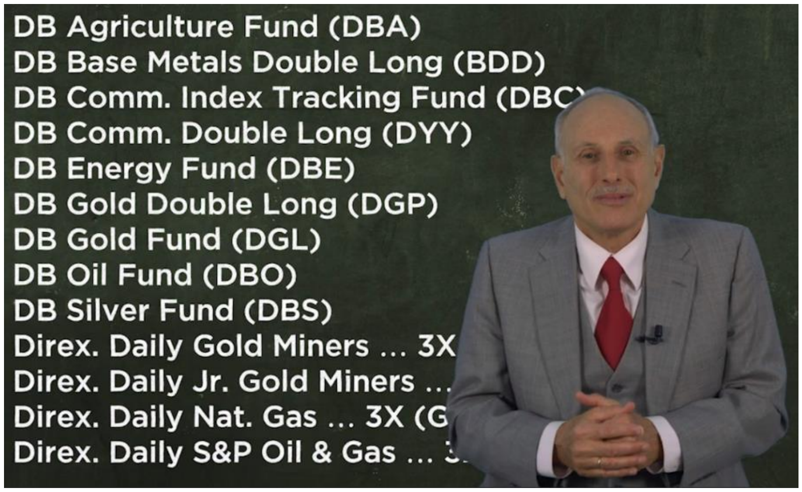
FORTUNE #4: will be made as this crisis comes to America. That's when the United States of America pays the price for the largest orgy of debt in more than 5,000 years of human history.

That's when the U.S. dollar, U.S. stocks and other U.S. assets will suffer a great plunge. And that's when we will recommend using inverse ETFs on the most vulnerable U.S. assets.

Inverse ETFs on what Japanese investors will sell:

- DB 3x Inverse Japanese Gov't Bond Futures (JGBD)
- DB Inverse Japanese Gov't Bond Futures (JGBS)
- ProShares UltraShort MSCI Japan (EWV)
- ProShares UltraShort Yen (YCS)
- New slide
- Inverse ETFs on what European investors will sell:
- Market Vectors Double Short Euro (DRR)
- ProShares Short Euro (EUFX)
- ProShares UltraShort Euro (EUO)
- ProShares UltraShort FTSE Euro (EPV)

Wow. During the Crash of 1987, which I remember very well, these instruments didn't even exist. And for many years thereafter we were lucky if we could find maybe two good ones.



Now, there are MANY diverse ETFs to profit from falling markets. Look at them! There are inverse ETFs on stock indexes like the Dow, the S&P 500 and the Nasdaq.

There are inverse ETFs on specific stock sectors. There are inverse ETFs on other asset classes like bonds and real estate.

And throughout this crisis, as ALL of these crises drive resource values higher, there will actually be a FIFTH great fortune to make as gold, silver, energy and other commodities — which are historically, mankind's most reliable hedges against uncertainty and crisis — they will enjoy a powerful new bull market.

And again, there are many liquid, easy-to-buy, easy-to-sell ETFs — ETFs specialized in agricultural commodities, ETFs in energy, ETFs in gold, silver, strategic metals, even ETFs on lithium and battery technology.

And even THAT is JUST the beginning. Because in our next session, Senior Editor, Sean Brodrick will tell you about an entirely different kind of leverage he plans to recommend.

And he will give you ACTUAL CASE HISTORIES to show you how profitable those investments are right now, today, in the real world:

- He will name his favorite stock in one well-known sector that recently surged 263%.
- He will name his favorite investment in a sector that most investors are ignoring right now that has jumped 566%.

- Plus, he will name his favorite in a much-maligned sector that has surged 824%.

Ladies and gentlemen, Edelson Institute Senior Analyst, Sean Brodrick.

SEAN: Hello — and welcome to the third and final installment of our "Supercycle Investment Summit."

In session #2, we saw how you could multiply your money — repeatedly throughout this crisis — with ETFs and inverse ETFs.

Right now, a tidal wave of flight capital is flowing out of foreign markets and into ours.

Even if that flow just continues at the current pace — without any increase — you could nearly triple your money.

And you could do that with strictly limited risk.

But what if, instead of just tripling your money, you could multiply it four times, five times, even six times or more ...

And STILL limit your risk strictly to the small amounts you invest?

And what if you could earn those kinds of gains in just a few months?

There is such an investment, and I'm using it to help members of Supercycle Investor go for truly life-changing profits every day.

You can buy these investments just like any other. But they have a unique ability to soar by leaps and bounds.

It's like buying high-powered options to go for big gains but without the headaches.

In fact, it's like buying options that don't expire!

I'm going to name them in just a second.

But first let me tell you why I'm so excited about these investments right now:

As has always happened in times of crisis, millions of investors world-wide are turning to mankind's greatest “safe harbor” investments.

I'm not only talking about investments tied to gold and silver.

But also, a very unique kind of resource I tell you about in my report, a resource that's enjoying the biggest boom of all.

As an investor, you could simply buy the resource itself — silver or gold bullion, for example. They're good investments, too. But they don't give you the leverage.

Astonishing FREE REPORT reveals how you can ...
Build FOUR great fortunes in 2017-2022

- Amass Fortune #1 NOW as a tidal wave of flight capital continues to hit Wall Street …
- Collect Fortune #2 beginning in October 2017 as JAPAN’s obscene one-quadrillion-yen national debt implodes, and …
- Accumulate Fortune #3 as EUROPE’s unpayable debts CRUSH the European Union
- Pile up Fortune #4 in as THE UNITED STATES DEFAULTS on the most obscene levels of government debt the world has ever known.

What really gives you the leverage is the mining shares. And on top of that, the investments that can multiply that leverage 10-fold — or even 20-fold — are newer, scrappier companies that often are overlooked by investors.

For decades, I have maintained that these smaller companies have, by FAR, the greatest profit potential.

Why? It's simple demand.

Demand from foreign investors who are frightened out of their wits by what they see happening all around them.

Demand from domestic investors who can see the handwriting on the wall of major government collapses still ahead.

And also, demand from those who believe gold bullion could be confiscated like it was in the 1930s. They know that mining stocks were never confiscated. That's why they prefer to buy the mining shares.

So, it should come as no surprise that when the you-know-what hits the fan, mining stocks become leveraged safe-haven investments that leave gold bullion or other metals in the dust.

And the profit potential of these shares is truly remarkable.

The reason: A special kind of leverage that uses ZERO debt!

That gives you several advantages:

Advantage #1 is that mining stocks give you enormous money-making power at a very low cost:

Right now, for example, 200 ounces of silver would cost you about $3,300.

But because mining companies often own much more silver than their market capitalization, you can effectively control 200 ounces of that company's silver for pennies on the dollar.

And when the price of silver rises, small cap mining shares historically soar many times over.

Here's an illustration based on actual facts ...

Your next-door neighbor decides to buy those silver coins I just mentioned. He pays $3,300 for 200 ounces.

Soon, the metal rises 10% in value. So, he proudly tells everyone he knows that he just snagged a gain of $330.

Not bad! But now let's say that, instead of buying the silver coins, you buy shares in one of my favorite companies that produces silver.

Recently that silver miner posted a gain that was TWENTY-EIGHT time greater than the rise of physical silver over the same time period.

So, your neighbor invested $3,300 in bullion and made a $330 profit. Meanwhile, you could have invested the exact same amount of money in the silver mine and bagged a whopping $9,240 instead! That's Advantage #1.

Advantage #2 is that buying small cap mining stocks gives you the best of all possible worlds: A small investment. Unlimited profit potential. And STRICTLY LIMITED RISK.

Never forget: Many leveraged investment vehicles expose you to margin calls. You could wind up losing MORE than you invested.

But when you buy stocks like these, that's never the case. The absolute most you can ever lose when you buy a small cap mining stock is the small amount you spend for them ... plus a tiny brokerage commission.

Unlike futures or short-selling, you can never suffer a margin call.

This means that, as long as you use only money you can afford to risk, you will NEVER place your retirement funds in jeopardy.

Of course, all investments involve risk. The good news here is you can know exactly how much your risk is ahead of time, and it will never be a penny more.

And now we have Advantage #3.

Advantage #3 is TIME!

Unlike options, small-cap mining shares don't have an expiration date.

If your timing is off and they don't surge as much — or as soon as — you hoped, you can just tuck those mining shares away in your portfolio and give them a second chance, or a third chance.

Even if your timing is wrong initially, you have abundant opportunity to be right in the months that follow.

How much could you make with small cap mining shares? Let's look at three case studies.

Case Study #1.

Between January of 2016 and August of 2017, gold bullion rose from $1,117 to $1,341 an ounce, that’s about a 22% rise.

But one of my favorite gold miners — Royal Gold — rose 263%. That's 12 times better than bullion.

Over this time period, Royal Gold share price rose from $25 to over $92!

Do you think similarly priced stocks, like General Motors or Bank of America, will rise that far, that fast!

Heck no!

But because these mining stocks are leveraged to the price of the metal, their gains can be explosive.

If you had owned Royal Gold, you would have seen every $10,000 invested grow to $36,300 in a matter of months!

Case Study #2.

Now, it's not just precious metal miners that enjoy the benefit of leverage — its industrial and energy metals as well!

And as you'll see in our report when you click this link, I expect energy metals, like lithium and cobalt, to be one of the hottest sectors for years to come.

But we're not restricted to energy metals. For example, take a look at one of my favorite industrial metal producers, Century Aluminum.

Between January of 2016 through August of 2017, the price of aluminum rose 39%. That's not bad.

If you had invested $10,000 in the metal, you'd have about $13,900 in your account today.

But the money made in Century Aluminum shares put that gain in the metal to shame.

In January of 2016, Century Aluminum was trading for $2.80 a share; by August of 2017, it had risen all the way to $18.65 — that's a massive 566% increase.

That gain is enough to turn $10,000 into $66,600 in a very short amount of time!

Shares of this aluminum company beat aluminum itself 14 to one!

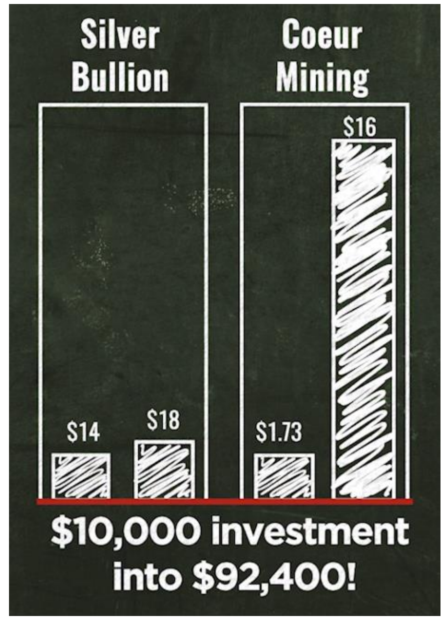
Case Study #3.

Between January and August of 2016, silver bullion rose from about $14 an ounce to $18 an ounce — roughly a 28% increase.

But over the same time period, one of my favorite silver miners, Coeur Mining, saw its share price soar from $1.73 a share to over $16 a share!

That's an 824% increase.

With that kind of gain, $10,000 turns into $92,400. If you catch just half of that move, and you'd still have over $50,000 in your account. All in about seven months!



So, by owning the company that produces silver, you could have done 29 TIMES BETTER than owning physical silver or certificates!

The profit potential here is truly enormous — especially as trillions of dollars in flight capital continue to flow to safe-haven investments in the American markets.

And frankly, since this crisis is looking so much more severe, I expect many trades to do even better.

The massive gains posted by mining shares that I've cited here occurred when metals posted a relatively modest gain.

But remember: Our cycle forecast calls for gold to hit $5,000 an ounce — a rise of more than 300%. And silver? $125 an ounce — that’s a surge of more than 700%.

And because these mining shares are leveraged to the price of the metal, they could give you far BIGGER gains.

How MUCH bigger? That will depend, of course, on the timing and the specific pick. But just consider this:

As I just told you, when the price of silver bullion rose 28% per ounce, Coeur Mining surged 824%.

So just imagine how much you could make with these kinds of companies when the price of silver skyrockets 700%.

Even if you can catch just a fraction of that rise, you'd be looking at large four-digit gains.

You'll have the opportunity to make investments like this many times — over and over and over during the next five years.

And you don't have to wait: These investments and these profits are available to you right now!

Well, we've done our best to give you as much valuable information as we could at this point.

There's just one missing ingredient we CAN'T give you ahead of time: The TIMING.
